Maine Masque Presents 'Damn Yankees' Musical Homecoming Weekend

If you want some good, zippy, fast moving entertainment this weekend, get yourself over to the Little Theatre to see Damn Yankees, the current presentation which opened Wednesday night and will play nightly through Saturday.

Here's a musical where the so-called "bit parts" come close to overpowering the leads both in acting ability and time on stage.

Torrey Sylvester comes close to stealing the show as one of the baseball players—along with versatile Don Billett. In fact, the whole team, including Ray Tanguay, J. Weston son, and Barry Gilman, packs a whallop with its natural on-stage "team spirit."

William Hanson, as the baseball commissioner in the second act, does a professional job on this amusing character role.

Stephanie Koziensky, Marjorie Abbott, and Mary Kozienski, as local girls from Hannibal, Missouri, get plenty of laughs from a few funny lines.

Sylvia Curran, who as the aggressive girl reporter is told by "Applegate the devil" to "go home, get married, have children," does her usual convincing job of acting.

Byron Avery as "Mr. Applegate" is a devil's devil and cracks his trident effectively throughout the show.

Steve von Molnar, as "Joe" before transformation, does an excellent job of both singing and acting. John Burr, the after transformation version of "Joe" is equally good. Both are ably supported by Jane Chapman as "Meg."

Carole Allen, as siren "Lola," does an able job on a difficult role, but is at her best when teamed up with smooth and easy Cal Thomas for an off-beat song and dance number.

Beatrice Reynolds, as "Miss Welch" the owner of the baseball team, is svelte in mink coats and black taffeta sheaths. She also does a more than adequate job of characterization.

Louenna Kostenbauder and Judy Fowler appear briefly and effectively. The dancing chorus includes Alicia Nichols, Betty Bridges, Joanne Good, Lucille Plante, Anne Duce, Laurel Hoyt, Diane Wiseman. Byron Avery and Cal Thomas were the choreographers, and John Burr directed the chorus.

The major problem for Damn Yankees director, Hershel Bricker, was finding vocal talent for a musical; about four of the players have adequate voices.

HOMECOMING—Senior Skull representative, Bob Munson, who is the co-chairman for the Homecoming dance, is pictured here chatting with the Homecoming Queen candidates. Faculty Council Will Investigate Store's Policy

At a meeting of the Faculty Council on October 13, the Elected Membership of the Council made the recommendation that a committee be appointed to examine the functions and services of the University Store Company.

The feeling was expressed at the meeting that the functions of the Bookstore could stand special study. The reasoning behind this statement stems from the fact that the Company was started originally to help finance athletics and that this need is no longer so pressing, they said.

According to a Council statement, the chief complaint now is that there are not sufficient textbooks available for all students until classes have been under way for two or three weeks.

The motion was carried to have the President appoint a committee to study the functions and services of the bookstore in their overall aspects. Dyer, Fred Varricchio, Duane Wat-

Student Spirit Soars High As Homecoming Nears

By Phyllis Warren

"Damn Yankees" and "Down Colby" will create an atmosphere of high-pitched spirit on the Maine campus this weekend as students make ready for the 58th annual Homecoming weekend.

Several thousand University alumni from many states are expected to return to the Orono campus this weekend, for the 58th Homecoming program.

The weekend's activities will begin on Friday evening at 6:30 with a rally and a bonfire. The rally will be held at the Memorial Gymnasium. Following its conclusion, the crowd will move outdoors for the traditional bonfire.

At the rally the five candidates for Homecoming queen will be presented plus skits by the freshman women.

Candidates for the Homecoming queen are: Sally Kennett from Topsham representing West Chadbourne; Celine Dumont, Lewiston, representing East Chadbourne; Valerie Beck from Waterville, South Etsabrooke's candidate; Sandra VanAken, Veazie, representing Off-Campus; and Carol O'Connor from Winthrop, representing the Elms.

Saturday morning the annual field hockey game between the women of the freshman and sophomore classes will be held at 9 on the women's athletic field. At 10 a.m., the alumnae will meet the undergraduate women in another game.

The Homecoming luncheon will precede the game at 11:45 Saturday morning in the Memorial Gymnasium. At the luncheon, the General Alumni Association of the University will honor one or more persons for service to the University.

Alumni attending will watch the presentation of the 1957 Black Bear awards, given in "recognition and appreciation of outstanding service in promoting university spirit." Names of recipients of the awards are kept secret until the presentation ceremonies. Nominations for the Black Bear awards are made by alumni and placed for consideration with a selection committee named by the president of the Alumni Association. The award may be given to an alumnus, alumna, faculty member, or friend of the University. This year a maximum of three awards will be made.

Among the points considered in selecting the award recipients are: devotion to the aims of the University, exemplification of the ideals of the University in personal life, length and quality of service to the University or Alumni Association, and standing among alumni.

Following the luncheon, students, friends and alumni will jam Alumni Field for the annual Maine-Colby football game. The game will be the highlight of the two-day celebration.

An after-the-game get together is being planned in the Memorial Gymnasium sponsored by the All-Maine Women. Fraternity reunions are slated from 4-5, and parties will continue throughout the evening at the fraternity houses.

The Homecoming production of the Maine Masque Theatre will be Damn Yankees. The play opens Wednesday night, October 29, and continues through Saturday night, November 1. The final performance of the play will be at 8:15 Saturday and will bring to an end the formal program of the University's Homecoming.

'Senior Lates' Start Sunday For Women

Starting Nov. 2, all senior women who have above probation grades will be allowed to take late permissions during the week.

For the remainder of the semester, nine late permissions may be taken. Of these, three may be 1 o'clock permissions and the remainder may be 12 o'clocks. Not more than 1 "late" may be taken in a class week.

15 late permissions are scheduled for next semester, including five 1 o'clocks and 10 12 o'clocks.

The system is conducted strictly on an honor system. The senior woman who takes a late permission during the week must have another senior woman wait up for her. If she returns late to the dormitory, it is up to the girl waiting for her to report the lateness to the house president. If it is not reported and the house president finds out about it later, both girls are subject to losing their "lates" for the remainder of the year.

INAUGURATION—At left is Dr. Raymond H. Fogler, president of the board of trustees and member of the class of 1915, who installed Dr. Lloyd Hartman Elliott as the ninth president of the University of Maine at the Inauguration ceremonies held on campus last week-end. Following this presentation President Elliott delivered his inaugural address to an audience representing about 100 colleges and universities, academic and professional societies, students from various campus organizations and about 300 faculty members from the University of Maine. Student Hurt In Car Crash

A 20-year-old University of Maine student, Henry B. Partridge, Jr., of Cos Cob, Connecticut, received injuries last Saturday night, when the car which he was driving skidded over 100 feet sideways on College Avenue and crashed into two trees.

According to Patrolman Roderick Nadeau of the Orono Police Department, Partridge's car was traveling north on College Avenue, when he went into the skid. Measurements taken at the scene of the accident show that the car skidded for 100 feet before going into another skid that carried the car across the road and into the stand of spruce. Police said that the tree trunk was embedded about 18 inches into the side of the car.

As a result of the accident, Partridge received a skull injury, a shoulder fracture, and chest injuries. Dr. Elmer Sewall of Orono was called to the scene along with the Orono fire department truck. The fire department had to provide a driver for the ambulance, when the regular ambulance driver was not available.

No charges have been brought against Partridge since the police have not as yet been able to talk to him, due to his injuries.

The accident occurred about 10:30 o'clock between Kell and Charles Streets. Partridge's condition was listed as satisfactory by the hospital,

Government Career Tests Are Being Offered Students

A chance to begin rewarding and stimulating careers in government is once again being offered students by the State of New York.

College juniors and seniors, as well as graduates, are eligible to take the Civil Service Department's Professional Career Tests, coming up on Dec. 13. Opportunities exist in a wide variety of fields and successful candidates, if appointed, may begin work immediately after graduation. Applications must be submitted by Nov. 17.

Most persons entering state employment through these tests will serve a one-year traineeship at $4,400 and then advance to a salary of $4,770 with five yearly increases to $5,860. Candidates in certain specialized fields may not be required to serve the traineeship and may be appointed at the $4,770 salary. Promotion opportunities in the civil service are excellent and top positions pay anywhere from $10,200 to $17,800.

Opportunities are available to students with majors in virtually every field, as well as to liberal arts students. Typical of the positions to be filled are administrative trainee, legal aide, economist trainee, actuary trainee, statistician trainee, publicity aide, library assistant, and parole trainee. Also, such science positions as bacteriologist trainee, chemist trainee, junior sanitarian, aquatic biologist trainee, forester trainee, and game research trainee are available.

By taking the same written tests, college seniors, college graduates and graduate students may also compete for appointment as public administration interns. During their year of training, interns receive substantial tuition assistance for graduate study in public administration and either $4,770 or $4,400, depending upon their educational backgrounds.

Applications and full information may be obtained at the college placement office in East Annex or by writing directly to the Recruitment Unit, New York State Department of Civil Service, The State Campus, Albany 1, New York.

The following were elected officers of the Central Dormitory Council: Nathaniel Robertson, President; Jim Gammon, vice president; Frederick Heath, Secretary; Dan McDonald, Treasurer.

Students Can Study In France

This year, for the first time, studies in the Humanities and Social Studies are available to American students in Aix-en-Provence, France.

The program is designed for American undergraduates who would like to study abroad and have the results of their studies transferable to their home universities. Costs, including transatlantic travel, will not be more than those at an average American private college or university.

The classes will normally be taught by American-trained faculty members using standard American texts wherever possible. Some of the courses offered are: European History, International Relations, European Trade and Finance, Comparative European Education, European Sociology, Comparative Journalism, Literature in Translation, Modern European Thought and Philosophy, History of European Music, French, Spanish, Italian, and German.

Starting in January 1959, the Institute will offer its "European Semester Program" whereby students can study in Aix for one semester alone. The Summer Programs in French Civilization, European Modern Art and European Music will be offered at the University's famous centers at Nice and Cannes on the Riviera.

Students of the Institute are enrolled in the University of Aix-Marseille, founded in 1409, part of the state universities in France and one of Europe's foremost seats of learning.

Further information may be secured by writing to the French Cultural Center, 972 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Hold Hockey Game Saturday

By Beatrice Reynolds

The alumnae connect with the upperclassmen in what should be a "fighting" field hockey game, 10:00 a.m., November 1. Another Homecoming feature is the annual "Frosh-Soph. Hat Game," 9:00 a.m. Refreshments will be served after the games.

Good conditioning and physical fitness in preparation for the approaching Homecoming games has been clearly demonstrated by the hockey players in their 25 yd. scrimmages. Shirley Jones and Carol Mount prove to be valuable players on the Sophomore team and will be tough competition for the strong Frosh opponents—Janice Hoyt and Jean Elliott. Competent Juniors, Barbara Connors and Jeannette Lawler will provide good support for the enthusiastic upperclassmen's squad.

Anyone interested in signing up for the skating event at Colby College may do so. There is a good possibility that alternates can attend.

Sign-up for badminton doubles now! The tournament begins November 5. It is not necessary to have a partner of the same class or from the same dormitory.

Dancing, Cheering, Noise All Part Of Homecoming

By Glenn Philippon

With thousands of alumni on campus to help the students whoop it up, this promises to be a gay week end, indeed. Festivities begin Friday evening with a bonfire and rally. The Skulls and All Maine Women are sponsoring the Stag Dance after the rally. Dr. Lloyd H. Elliott will crown the Homecoming Queen during the intermission of the dance.

More hilarity will characterize Saturday with the game against Colby. The All Maine Women are sponsoring an After-the-Game Coffee in the gym. A short after-the-game lull and the fun starts anew with the Homecoming Dance in the gym and parties, parties everywhere.

Maine Masque is providing entertainment of a higher nature with its production of Damn Yankees. This isn't exclusively a week end event as the musical is running Wednesday through Saturday.

Last weekend seemed a preview to Homecoming with guests and participants of the Inauguration swarming the campus and a home game. As usual with home games, there was a rally and stag dance Friday night. Les Nedeau did the honors. Also on Friday night was ATO's FALL House Party with Nat Diamond.

Saturday evening, Kappa Sigma had a Jam Session and Phi Eta Kappa their Pledge Party with Gordon Howe. Sigma Nus danced to the music of the greats at their Record Hop.

Central Dormitory Council is putting on a Record Hop this Saturday for dormitory residents. Admission is by lunch cards and refreshments will be served.

Williamson To Speak At Veterans Day Assembly

Robert B. Williamson, chief justice of the Maine Supreme Court, will speak at the Veterans Day Assembly at 10 a.m., Nov. 11, in the Memorial Gymnasium.

This assembly will take the place of the Memorial Day Assembly, which, in recent years, has come during final examinations.

A native of Augusta and a graduate of Harvard University and Harvard Law School, Justice Williamson practiced law in Augusta for several years. In 1945, he was appointed to the Superior Court. Four years later he was advanced to the Supreme Court and recently was appointed as chief justice of that body.

Serving as an officer in World War I and a former member of the Maine legislature, Justice Williamson has been active in many local and state civic affairs.

In recognition of his many and distinguished services, the University conferred an honorary degree of doctor of laws upon him in June of 1956.

Jack Butterfield, who was graduated from the University of Maine in 1953, is coach of freshman basketball at the state University.

WORO Begins Live Coverage

The on the spot broadcasting of the last senate meeting by WORO marked the beginning of the planned "live remote" programs covering campus activities, said Ralph Hodgkins, station manager.

As well as these on the spot broadcasts, the addition of a tape recorder to WORO's equipment last week will enable them to tape up to an hour of uninterrupted program for later play-back over the air. WORO taped and rebroadcast a part of last week's inauguration ceremonies, he said.

At present, WORO is using a remote amplifier designed and built by two student engineers at the station, Richard Cushman and William Reed.

The remote amplifier which WORO has ordered is a transistor, self-contained power unit, which Editorials:Stop, Look, And Think!

The picture that appears above this editorial is not a pleasant one. While many University of Maine students enjoyed last week-end and all that went with it, the driver of this car, a University Junior, did not. He will not, in fact, enjoy anything for a long time.

The University as a whole has been pretty lucky in the matter of automobile accidents over the past few years, but this accident shows what can happen.

This week-end is homecoming. There will be plenty of opportunity for more of what happened last Saturday night. It need not happen.

Fun is fun and we are all for it. Fun can be good or bad. What makes it good is the use of judgment. As you read this, stop and promise yourself that you will use your own common sense this week-end. Don't mention it to your buddy. He would probably laugh in your face, unless he, too, has the intelligence to make himself the same promise.

Speed kills, they say, and those who say it are pretty sure of what they are talking about. They also say that alcohol kills, lack of sleep kills, and failure to pay attention kills. They are invariably right. Unfortunately, there is always some fool to prove them right.

Don't you be one of those fools. Remember this through the week-end.

Last year during homecoming and in many past years this thing called fun took its toll. There is not any single, sensible reason for fun being costly. Just remember, judgment is what can make it free.

Oh, yes. The Orono police have made it known to this office that they are going to be especially nasty this week-end, as well they should be. We wouldn't be too surprised if several other law enforcement agencies around the state might be taking the same attitude.

Class Elections Are Important

Class elections are next week and, contrary to some opinion, are important. Here are a few of the things you might think about and even go so far as to inquire into.

How about class dues? Do you think that they are too high for your class? Which candidate might do something about lowering them? Or another question: Do you think the activities of your class are complete enough or do you think some of them are a waste of time and could be changed to something that would be to the liking of more people?

Think about some of these questions and then vote!

This weekend is one of the biggest of the year. It is a celebrated event on almost every college campus and rightly so. At the University of Maine, the students arrive on September 15th and begin planning for Homecoming. This is only natural as college students always know just how many seconds will elapse before the next vacation.

Fraternities, dormitories and organizations sketch, draft, sweat out, coerce and stay up all night building displays in any available spot, space, nook and cranny. Girls panic if they don't have a date at least two weeks in advance. Old, middle-aged, and recent grads plan for this for weeks. A typical comment heard during Commencement in June is "See you at Homecoming!"

Let's think a minute — how do we look to these people during this very important weekend? Homecoming denotes one special thing to them. They "lived" here for four of the best years of their lives. Things have changed since they were here. The grad of '08 is amazed by the buildings, facilities, courses and opportunities offered here — he didn't have these chances.

As an example of how much these people honor the time they spent here, think of the numbers who come back. They travel from coast to coast to spend even 24 hours of leisure among the people that they knew.

Don't think that they are so busy with their old friends that they overlook what is going on at the present. What kind of an appearance do we present to them?

We of the "beat generation" have a lot to live up to and even more to break down. Do we support the stereotyped theory of the wise-cracking teen-ager, the "why-work-when-I-can-spend-my-father's-money" kind of person? Are we to be looked up at, can they be assured that we can fill the shoes which they have ably worn for numbers of years? I rather think that we have the ability and character to do this. But, it is not for one of us to say. They are the judges and have the experience to say "yes" or "no".

One day, we will be as proud to be "alums" of the University of Maine as they are now.

Our conduct this weekend may be the basis of many comments. We are here for a purpose, and with the educational problems of today, we are veritably the "chosen few." If given a choice, we would probably not change with anyone. This education is of the utmost importance, we realize this and, in general, we try to make the most of it.

Let's strive to keep the University of Maine a place for which the grads can be proud. We certainly can do it and could make or break a proud tradition this weekend. There is no room on this campus this weekend for the show-off, the party boy, and the prospective slunkie. We can't be too perfect and have to act natural, but sweep the "dirt" of the campus under the mat where it belongs and present a clean face to the alums. It is no strain and Homecoming will benefit from it.

Mail BagWe Have Word From The West

To the Editor:

I received great pleasure in reading Nonnie Hilchey's article "Sign Up Here For UMCAAAN." (Re. Maine Campus, October 2, 1958.) I would like to make some comments if I may:

I definitely agree with Miss Hilchey's candid description of the utter confusion concerning the student's choice in organizations to "join." Yes, there is an organization for every cause . . . and a cause for every organization. These range from societies such as the Speech Choir up to the illustrious Union Activity Board. Many of these organizations have been termed "do-good" clubs . . . I suppose the question is, to whom does the "do-good" refer?

UMCAAAN obviously requires little work and effort on the part of its members, and surely there is no way for a member to get into "hot water", since its only aim is to "sublimate nothing." Could anyone be more satisfied with himself than when sublimating nothing? (At least the blase senior.) I advise, along with Miss Hilchey, that every student who is momentarily a "grind" and also every student that is slowly becoming an organization man stop where he is, reconsider, and join the fast growing membership of the University of Maine Chapter of the American Association for Absolutely Nothing.

I am presently filing application for membership with the membership secretary, whose name is still being withheld; however, this poses a problem since one of the membership rules states that a senior girl must be unpinned in order to join . . . I hear that the membership secretary is pinned.

I am extremely pleased that my one-time alma mater is the originator of the "soon-to-be-famous group." The students at Iowa are presently making plans to begin a colony.

In closing may I say that I was very surprised to see my picture on the cover of the 1958-'59 University of Maine Catalogue. I guess that this goes to show one what an organization will do for him.

Very sincerely yours,
Barry N. Smith

To the Editor:

We, the undersigned, would like very much to see this letter published in the Campus in order to let our problem be known to the right people and to be of help to the student body.

Being ex-servicemen, we are not required to take physical training as part of our course of study. Due to the amount of work required by the Technology course we have very little time, if any to use the gym facilities during the school week. When we do get the chance to use them on the weekend we find the gym is being used for varsity practice or some other function. In such cases we have been instructed to come back Sunday afternoon between one and five. Lo and behold, what happens? The place is locked up tighter than a drum. I know very well that there are many more on campus with this same problem.

What we would like to see is a little more organization and co-operation from the athletic department. With the help of the government we are paying for the use of the gym facilities, yet we are unable to even get in the gym to begin with. We hope we won't have to sign up for the physical training program just to get a little exercise. Using the gym itself is only part of the problem. Half the time we can't sign out footballs, use the speed bag, or the trampoline. How about it, those of you who are concerned, what are you going to do about it? Give us a fighting chance, will you.

Sincerely,
Robert S. Miller

Strictly SpeakingConcert Series Under Fire

By Jack Linnell

This year the University of Connecticut is offering to its students a concert series of outstanding merit. Some of the featured events are the appearances of: Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Philharmonic, Victor Borge, the Boston Symphony, Erroll Garner, Marion Anderson, and Bambi Lynn and Rod Alexander. This year the University of Maine is offering its students the following events: Tony Praymair and his Gay Tyrolers, the New Orleans Symphony, and University Music Night.

Quite a difference between the two programs, isn't there? Yet both of these institutions are land grant colleges, and they are both in New England. So why the tremendous difference in caliber?

It may be argued that UConn has better facilities to stage this type of show, and that the U. of M. won't have a suitable spot until the Hauck Auditorium is built.

This may be so, but it seems to me that for an attraction such as the Philadelphia Philharmonic, it would not be an impossibility to rent the Bangor Auditorium.

It may also be argued that Maine cannot afford such expensive performers as Connecticut is offering. Couldn't this be overcome by charging a suitable admission price? It would seem that students here would rather pay a couple of dollars to see Victor Borge, than go watch the Gay Tyrolers for free.

Maybe students here aren't interested in seeing this type of attraction. That doesn't seem to be the case either, for if they will attend the type of program that is being offered now, they should come in droves to the type of entertainment that could be provided. The Alec Templeton concert should be proof positive of that.

Does anyone think that Erroll Garner would not fill any auditorium around here, even if there was an admission price?

If this be the case, then what can be done about getting better cultural attractions on this campus? Some real enthusiasm on the part of the students would seem to be the first goal.

Of course UConn is a larger school than we are, and they are not so strapped for funds as we seem continuously to be. Nevertheless, if we can only afford three events each year, let's at least make a sincere attempt to make them outstanding enough to warrant the students' attention.

What do you think?

History Professor Speaks

By Dr. Robert York

For ten years I have been offering the Maine History course at the University and for the past three years I have served as State Historian. During this period there have been many frustrating experiences partly because the State of Maine is not rich in published historical works and partly because our University collection is too limited and/or too precious to allow unrestricted use by students of Maine History. Although the State of Maine collection was placed on open stacks when the present Library building opened, it soon became necessary to remove it to the current "hiding place" and to limit the use of the books to the library itself. Justified as this decision was, the results have been disastrous to high quality book reports and term papers and selected readings from many sources.

It will take many more books before we can equal Bowdoin's collection where no course in Maine History is offered and where no professor has a special interest in the subject. Even then we will be sadly deficient in newspapers and manuscripts — both very essential tools of the historian. We can never render the kind of service needed by writers of original term papers and authors of master's theses until we have complete historic files of Maine newspapers. Understandably we are very weak in manuscripts. It is time for the University to assert itself in this field especially if we are to offer

Ph.D. degrees in history in the near future.

There is a wealth of material in attics, sheds, private libraries and even local historical societies which is slowly succumbing to the ravages of time. Much is lost annually to the rubbish pile or fire. Until more material becomes readily accessible to scholars, our knowledge of Maine history is bound to remain sketchy. Many libraries and societies already possessing abundant material suffer from inadequate or no cataloging. Not even the Government of the State of Maine has a trained archivist. The volume of materials suggests to the uninitiated the need for a tremendous bonfire.

Here on campus, a similar but less serious problem exists. Several years ago, President Hauck appointed a committee to do some spade work for a centennial history of the University. It was discovered early that there was a potentially large reservoir of data, but it was widely scattered and of unknown quality. Each administrative unit of the University is custodian and judge of its own records. There is nothing to prevent a dean, department head or any other responsible official from taking all their personal files with them upon retirement or from destroying them if they wish. A University archivist could insure that unimportant or strictly personal material would be discarded but that significant data would be transferred to a central depository and organized for use by the trained historian.

Finally, it is my fond hope that someday the University will create a museum of History and Useful Arts here on the campus. With our rich heritage there would be abundant materials with which to stock such a museum. Would it not be wonderful if right here on the Penobscot where long lumber kept a date with the saw-mills, we could have a visual history of the lumber industry as seen through the tools and equipment utilized in all parts of that industry? The same would apply to our changing agriculture as well as to many other aspects of our history. Such a museum would perform a useful service to students in many courses and would be a point of interest to visitors.

Ever meet a Doubting Thomas?

A college senior once remarked to a Bell System interviewer: "A telephone career must be a mirage. I hear talk about fabulous training, fascinating work, grade-A job security, and rapid advancement in management. Sounds a bit too rosy. What's the real story?"

The interviewer knew mere talk wouldn't sell a skeptic. So he showed him some "profiles" of recent college graduates who had enjoyed that fabulous training, had worked at intriguing jobs, and had won early management promotions.

Our once-skeptical friend has been with the Bell System 3 years now—and is currently supervising the work of 55 people.

We've converted a host of Doubting Thomases. Whether doubtful or not, you'll learn a lot about rewarding telephone careers by talking with the Bell System interviewer when he visits your campus. The following rules have been set for posting campaign publicity:

The placing of campaign posters in the Union is restricted to candidates for class presidencies; each qualified candidate may put up one poster, size 22"x14". This poster is to be left at the Union Newscounter to be put up by the house committee. As a suggestion, all candidates for office are perfectly free to distribute campaign hand bills in the Union at any time.

In general, attaching signs to exterior or interior building walls, doors, roofs, etc., is discouraged. The preferred method is attaching signs to stakes driven into the ground.

If signs are to be attached to trees or utility poles, they should be fastened with strong cord or string. Tacks and nails cause damage and should not be used.

The climbing of utility poles which carry electric current is extremely dangerous and should never be done. If signs must be placed across a street or walk, a location with large, sturdy trees should be selected. For this type of display permission should be obtained in advance from the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds or, if he cannot be located, the Director of Plant and Facilities.

Any unusual or special displays not covered by the foregoing should be discussed in advance with the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds.

For the convenience of all candidates, temporary bulletin boards will be installed outdoors near the Main Entrance of the Memorial Union. All displays should be removed promptly when they have served their purpose.

aided by a beautiful block executed by the unidentified player on the ground, eluded Bates' Fred Drayton (40) for the score. In the background are Maine's Chuck Eberbach (33) and Randy White (31). Maine blasted Bates 40-0 with Miles, White, Bragg, and Eberbach all playing a prominent part in the slaughter.

4. Everyone, male and female alike, should try and enjoy their best homecoming weekend ever by coming out to watch the game and rally and by cheering their team on to victory.

Choices of the week:

The Little Man in the Black Beret, who now has 29 of 41 correct guesses, says in a manner of serene sobriety that Maine will overpower Colby by 18, Bates belt Bowdoin by 24, Connecticut top New Hampshire by 12, Delaware and Dave Nelson smash Massachusetts by 36, Rhode Island jock-Springfield by 14, Vermont blast St. Lawrence by 20, and on the national front: Army will march past Colgate with or without the services of Dawkins and Walters by 34, Boston College will have the number of College of Pacific in spite of Dick Bass, Navy will bombard Notre Dame by 18 gun salutes, Pitt will squeak by Syracuse in the day's best battle, Auburn will swim past Florida by 20, Colorado will turn in the upset of the day by beating Oklahoma by 12, Michigan State will assume the position by being paddled by Wisconsin by 8, Iowa will top Michigan by 12, Ohio State will take Northwestern by 20, and Texas will defeat SMU.

Blots, Jots, and Plots

Carl Edler, senior captain, and Bob Sterritt, varsity member, are the finalists in the fall tennis tournament. Tournament has produced evidence of fine freshman group available for frosh duty next spring.

Ed Styrna's harriers have outside team chance in Yankee Conference championships Saturday, but "the Big D's" Dale (Bessey) and (Bill) Daly are rated strong contenders for individual honors.

New hoop mentor, Brian McCall, making big move for future success by carrying seven sophomores on his thirteen man varsity squad... Bill Mortenson, unable to compete presently because of an injury, will be joining squad next week... McCall, extra strong at forward but weak comparatively at guard, has been testing Don Sturgeon at guard... McCall is driving team hard working on speed and precision in hopes for big winning season... Hoop season opener on December 6 versus Bates.

Juiner Art Dickson and sophomore Pete Sothmann were winners in the annual fall Golf Tournament. Both expected to be 1-2 on the varsity golf team which will sorely miss graduated stars LeClair, Getchell, and Lynch.

Connecticut's football forces have one of their two remaining YanCon tests this weekend against hot and cold New Hampshire at Durham. Final Huskie go will be at Rhode Island's homecoming on Nov. 15. Present UConn title chances excellent, but football does breed upsets. As for Maine, no worse than second after being predicted by all for a fourth place finish.

Yankee Conference Harrier Meet Seen As Up For Grabs

Maine is at Amherst Saturday for the all important varsity cross country Yankee Conference Championship meet. Competing teams are Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine, Vermont, Connecticut, and New Hampshire.

Maine Has Chance

Coach Ed Styrna says that the way things look, Maine has as good a chance as any other Yankee Conference team. Styrna picks Vermont as a very slight favorite. He says that the only thing he can say for sure is that Maine will finish in the first six teams. Since there are only six teams running, Styrna's statement would seem to be a forecast of a very close and very interesting meet with any team being capable of taking it all.

Maine met Vermont last Saturday at Vermont in a dual meet. The Bears ran their best race of the year although losing 26-31. If Carl MacDonald had been present for the 14-13 meet it might have been even closer.

State Series play continues into the second round of action this weekend with Colby at Maine and Bowdoin battling Bates. The winner of Saturday's homecoming game at Orono between Colby and Maine will be assured of at least a tie for the Governor Barrows Trophy symbolic of the State Series title.

Mules Are Tough

Colby brings to Maine a 3-2 win-loss record. The Mules smashed Bowdoin 44-12 last week as halfback Mike Farren lugged the pigskin for three Colby touchdowns. The Mules coached by Bob Clifford have also beaten Brandeis and Springfield while losing to Trinity and Williams.

Senior quarterback Al Rogan heads the Mule attack which has rolled up 124 points thus far in 1958. Rogan has a veteran backfield around him including Farren, an ex-Swampscott High School star, sophomore Bob Nigro, and Mark Brown. The Colby line is anchored by co-captain Tom Connors, a 195 pound center from Cheshire, Connecticut. Other starters in the Colby line will be Bruce and Cavari at ends, Sands and Berman at tackles, Fowler and Jordan at guards.

Mules Revenge Minded

Last year produced a memorable game between these two clubs with Maine the eventual winner by a 14-13 count. The loss cost the Mules an outright State Series title. Those who were at the game have never forgotten the general melee which developed after the game as the Maine fans attempted to take down the Colby goalposts.

The Colby-Maine series began way back in 1892. Since then, the Bears have taken the Mules 41 times and have been turned back 21 times.

The battle between Bowdoin and Bates at Lewiston will be fought by two teams who were badly beaten last week. Bob Hatch's Bobcats will be trying to bounce back from a 40-0 whitewash suffered at the hands of the Maine Bears. The Bobcats will run head on into the state's most passingest team which is still looking for its first victory in 1958.

Bears Ready For Mules

Maine ought to be ready for Colby. The Bears with a 5-1 record bounced back from their loss to Connecticut by slaughtering Bates. The Bears overpowered the Bobcats with 313 yards gained rushing and 120 more by passing. Maine rolled up 23 first downs against only 3 registered by Bates.

The Bears, held to a 8-0 half-time advantage, burst out for 20 more in the third set, and put frosting on the cake with 12 more in the final quarter. In victory, the Bears displayed once again their tremendous all around attack which centers around the defense which has allowed only 35 points all year including three shutouts.

Last weekend's Maine touchdowns were registered by Dave Baribeau, Gerry DeGrandpre, Dave Kerry, Bob Pickett, and two by junior fullback Bob Bragg.

Maine's initial score was made by Bragg on a 2 yard smash through right guard coming on an 83 yard drive on 15 plays. Sophomore Art Miles quarterbacked this series of plays mixing up his attack with key passes and runs through the middle and around ends. Miles, first string quarterback on last season frosh eleven, was brilliant in the Maine victory.

WELL, IT'S THIS WAY—Maine's two big threats for the Yankee Conference Cross Country championships being run Saturday at Amherst, Massachusetts, Dale Bessey (left) and Bill Daly have a tete-a-tete before a recent meet which saw both place 1-2 in individual finishes. Daly tied teammate Dan Rearick for first place honors in last year's conference championships which saw Ed Styrna's Bears the victors.
